SESSION 1 OF 5 — OFFER WORKSHOP

The Offer They Can't Refuse

Session recap, outputs, and next steps

DATE	ATTENDEES	FACILITATOR
June 19, 2026	Susi Herlina, Maria Natasha	Matthieu Jammers — OLC Method

Session 1 was about building the foundation for every sales conversation going forward. Before we can teach discovery questions, closing scripts, or follow-up sequences, we need to agree on exactly what we are selling — not the apartment, but the complete value a buyer receives when they say yes to The Sanctuary.

WHAT THIS SESSION PRODUCED

1. Three buyer profiles — who they are, what actually moves them, and which profile to prioritize
2. Value Equation scores — where The Sanctuary is strong, where buyers are losing confidence, and what to fix first
3. Master objection list — every real objection you face, mapped to the stage where it appears
4. Complete Offer Stack — every element of the offer named and valued, totalling over $800K in perceived value
5. Risk reversal and urgency language — how to address the buyer's biggest fear and the real reason to act now

> The apartment is the vehicle. The dream outcome is the destination. From this session forward, you are not selling a 40sqm suite in Canggu. You are selling financial security, community, and a life where your money works while you are not in Bali.

THE THREE BUYER PROFILES

PROFILE A

The Pure Investor

"I want my capital working. Give me the number, prove it is real, and show me how hands-off this is."

MOST COMMON TODAY

PROFILE B

The Lifestyle Investor

"I want a Bali base I can actually use, that pays for itself while I am not here. The wellness lifestyle is part of the decision."

MOST VALUABLE TO TARGET

PROFILE C

The Nirvana True Believer

"I already come here every year. I spend all day at Nirvana and sleep somewhere that doesn't match. I want to own a piece of this."

Key insight from the session: Profile A is who you pitch most often. Profile B is who you should prioritize going forward — they convert on emotion and lifestyle, not just numbers, which means shorter sales cycles and less due diligence friction. Profile C is the most underused: they are already inside the building. They just need to be asked.

VALUE EQUATION — HOW BUYERS SCORE THE SANCTUARY TODAY

Every purchase decision comes down to four levers. Susi and Natasha scored each one independently and landed on identical scores — a strong signal. The weakest lever is where deals are stalling.

Dream Outcome — Are we communicating what the buyer actually gets?	3 / 5
Perceived Likelihood — Does the buyer believe it will actually deliver?	3 / 5
Time Delay — How long before they see the return?	4 / 5
Effort & Sacrifice — How much risk and complexity does the buyer feel?	2 / 5

The gap to fix: Effort & Sacrifice scored lowest. The two main friction points are the lease extension question and the PBG/SLF permit. Buyers do not feel unsafe about Nirvana — they feel uncertain about the legal and structural details, and that uncertainty stalls or kills deals at the due diligence stage. The Offer Stack and action items in this recap address both.

WHAT THE BUYER ACTUALLY GETS

Most pitches lead with the suite. The Sanctuary's real value is everything in this table. When you present the full stack, you are not justifying a price — you are showing a buyer that the price is self-evident. The suite is the vehicle. Everything else is the offer.

WHAT THE BUYER GETS	WHAT IT DOES FOR THEM	STANDALONE VALUE
The suite 40–44sqm, fully furnished, wellness-designed, soundproofed	Private, premium space inside the club — built and managed for them	$179K – $259K
ROI guarantee 10% contractual minimum, first 2 years, in the management agreement	Removes financial risk entirely for the first 2 years — floor is guaranteed in writing	$19K – $26K / yr
Lifetime Nirvana Life Club membership Full access for life, for two people, from day of signing	They belong here permanently, not as a visitor but as an owner and member. Valid for two people.	~$134K
28 personal use nights per year Suite reserved for the owner, prioritized, every year	A guaranteed Bali base — no booking uncertainty, no compromise on quality	~$151K
Fully managed Zero operations for the owner — Nirvana handles everything	No property management burden from abroad — truly passive	Included
Pre-booked retreat occupancy Retreat operators pre-book annually, guaranteeing base occupancy	Occupancy floor from day one — not dependent on hotel marketing alone	Included
Legal support package PBG documentation, leasehold structure, extension clause — ready for advisor review	Removes the legal friction point — everything is documented and reviewable	~$24K
Total stack value		$800K+

> The frame that changes the conversation: "You are not comparing this to other apartments. You are comparing it to anything else you could do with $189K. What else gives you a contractual 10% floor, lifetime club membership, 28 nights in a world-class wellness facility, and zero management? The numbers speak for themselves."

URGENCY — WHAT IS REAL

Price increases 5% in July. Buying now at the current price means the same contractual yield on a lower entry point — a higher effective return on capital. This is genuine, not manufactured. Use it plainly: "Once the price goes up, you get the same guarantee on more money invested."

RISK REVERSAL

The refined guarantee: "You receive your return monthly based on hotel performance. If we fall short of 10% by year-end, property management covers the shortfall. That is written into your contract." Monthly, specific, contractual — not a promise.

EVERY OBJECTION — MAPPED TO THE STAGE WHERE IT APPEARS

The goal is to answer every objection before the buyer raises it. Not with pressure — with proof. When the buyer feels heard before they speak, they trust you faster.

OBJECTION	STAGE	ANSWER DIRECTION	STATUS
"Too expensive for 40sqm"	First conversation	Reframe: not selling sqm. Show the full stack. The comparison is not other apartments — it is other uses of $189K.	READY
"How do I know the 10% is real?"	First conversation	Contractual, written into the management agreement. 18 of 32 buyers committed before the foundation was done. Traffic data sheet needed to reinforce.	IN PROGRESS
"What about the lease extension?"	Due diligence	Nirvana's own business runs on the same lease — extending is in our interest first. Negotiation handled by Nirvana. Clean prepared answer needed.	NEEDS TOBY
"What about the PBG/SLF permit?"	Due diligence	Application registered, standard process for Bali. 90% of rentals operating here don't have full permits yet — this is normal. One-paragraph factual response removes this.	NEEDS TOBY
"What if I need to exit early?"	Negotiation	They can sell the suite. Matthieu handles the resale as broker — the owner does not manage the process. Only cost is the standard broker fee. No complexity, no lock-in.	READY
"The nightly rate seems too high"	Due diligence	Confirmed rates: $152–255 / night. Comparable wellness hotel rates in Canggu to be documented as a benchmark.	IN PROGRESS
"Tower 1 doesn't have the sauna / ice bath"	First conversation	Stop comparing. Tower 1 is a separate offer. Pure Investor: same yield, lower price, higher ROI. Lifestyle: ground floor, direct terrace, inside the life of the club.	READY
"I can only stay 28 days — what if it's booked?"	Post-meeting	Owner use is prioritized in the booking system. The 20% unoccupied assumption in projections already accounts for owner use periods.	READY

BEFORE SESSION 2 — WHAT NEEDS TO HAPPEN

The Offer Stack is built. What is missing is the documentation that removes friction at the due diligence stage. These items do not require the sales team — they require Nirvana internally.

ACTION	OWNER	PRIORITY
Traffic data sheet — one document showing real footfall at Nirvana (700+ people/day). A chart or factual summary. This is the strongest proof point for the ROI objection and does not exist as a shareable asset yet.	Marketing / Toby	HIGH
Extension answer — two to three sentences the whole team can deliver confidently on a call. What is the current status, what is the process, and what does it mean for the buyer.	Toby + Legal	HIGH
PBG/SLF status statement — a short factual response covering where you are in the permit process and why it does not put buyers at risk. For use on calls and in the legal support package.	Toby + Legal	HIGH
Technical specification sheet — full apartment specs and amenities for buyer due diligence. See page 6. Confirm and complete all missing fields with Toby before Session 2.	Toby / Team	HIGH
Susi and Natasha — bring one or two real cold leads to Session 2. Conversations that went quiet. We will use actual cases to build the follow-up scripts.	Susi / Natasha	SESSION 2

SESSION 2 — DISCOVERY AND FOLLOW-UP

In Session 1 we built what you are selling. In Session 2 we build how you find out what the buyer actually wants before you pitch anything. The goal is to stop presenting everything to everyone and start asking the three questions that identify which buyer you are talking to in the first five minutes — and what matters to them specifically.

SESSION 2 WILL PRODUCE

- Three discovery questions — one per buyer profile
- A follow-up sequence for leads that go quiet after the first meeting
- A requalification script for leads that have gone cold

> The shift from Session 1 to Session 2: you now know your offer inside out. The next skill is listening — finding out fast which dream outcome the buyer has, so you are speaking to what they actually care about rather than presenting the full pitch every time.
